

Eastern-in-the-News

EASTERN'S ART SHOW EXHIBITS FINE STUDENT ART

Moorefield – April 26, 2013 — At a student and community art show April 26, Marcie Beyersdorfer, Art Appreciation instructor at Eastern WV Community and Technical College, at right, admires oil on canvas and wood artwork by Rachel Hubbard, an Eastern student. Ryan Zirk, also an Eastern student, showed relief artwork and oil on canvas. Several high students from Moorefield and Pendleton County High Schools, some of whom are early entrance or dual credit students at Eastern, also exhibited artwork.

At left, the band “Next Exit” warms up for its Art Show performance.

At the show, Eastern also released volume two of “Eagles Nest”, its literary magazine, under student Chris Windley’s editorship.

“Dedicated, hardworking students like Chris Windley and Ryan Zirk really pitched in, investing themselves and their time to make this show possible,” noted Curtis Hakala, Eastern’s instructor and coordinator for developmental education in English, who served as the magazine’s and the show’s faculty advisor and producer. “We hope their efforts will inspire others to take part next year.

Beyersdorfer and Moorefield High School’s art teacher Holly Landes, along with Eastern’s Amy Crites and Jessica Markwood, provided valuable production assistance. Serving the residents of Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, Pendleton and Tucker counties, and fully accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, Eastern West Virginia Community and Technical College is a comprehensive and equal opportunity community and technical college bringing the resources and assets of Education That Works to the families, communities and employers of the Potomac Highlands.